

Ontario Health is the provincial agency responsible for ensuring Ontarians continue to receive high-quality healthcare services where and when they need them.
The Indigenous Cancer Control Unit, within CCO, is accountable for implementing the First Nations, Inuit, Métis and urban Indigenous Cancer strategy. This resource has been adapted from the initial "Screening Toolkit" resource created by Prevention and Screening Services, at Thunder Bay Regional Health Sciences Centre, in partnership with Wequedong Lodge, Cancer Care Ontario and Northwestern Ontario partners.
